Job Application for Data Scientist

To whom it may concern,

About Me

For the last years I programmed mostly with the Python Data Science stack (NumPy, SciPy, Scikit-Learn, Pandas, Matplotlib, Jupyter, etc.). I have also gained much experience in bringing data science to production and in general the development of data-driven services.

Why Google?

I'm excited to join Google because of its deep technical culture. I consider you the leading player in technology, innovation, and overall the leading player online. In my book, considering the variety of products and services you offer to both individual and corporate users all around the world.

Why Me?

I have experience in data visualization and developing workflows to compare diverse data sources. I am currently a Data Science. I work and collaborate cross-functionally with our various departments. I have strong communication skills and experience in explaining technical topics to a general audience.

Sincerely,

Dmitrii Maksimov
